

LIFE IN HONOLULU AS DESCRIBED IN BUFFALO

The Buffalo Courier says: Mrs. Randolph Graves Moore, formerly Miss Hoffman, arrived in Buffalo on Sunday from Honolulu, and is the guest of her mother, Mme. Hoffman, of Breckenridge street. Mrs. Moore returns to her home city with only pleasant things to say of the city of her adoption. "One of the most beautiful spots imaginable," says Mrs. Moore of the city of Honolulu, "and an ideal climate. Ninety degrees would not merely be unusual in Honolulu, but almost unprecedented. So equable is the temperature at all times that the record of any day in one year may be safely predicted as the probability for the corresponding date in the next year. Sunstroke is a thing unknown in the islands, and every one takes life easy. "A comparison between Buffalo and Honolulu would be out of the question," said Mrs. Moore. "They are so entirely different. Honolulu is a city where the people live from day to day quietly and pleasantly. If a bit of work is not accomplished today it can be done tomorrow and no one is going to worry about it. There is nothing strenuous about the life of the city and the American or English man or woman going to the islands is at first impressed with the indolence of the people, but after a short time begins to think that the quiet life is rather alluring and finally succumbing to the magic atmosphere, becomes one of the great through which takes life easy. The people of the city are delightful, even the natives with their large, soft, dark eyes ever willing to make friends, are pleasant to meet. The American, English and German people in the city are all comfortably situated and have beautiful homes."

Mrs. Moore brought with her photographs of her attractive home, surrounded by the choicest of palms and tropical flowers, with broad verandas after the style of the old Southern homes. "Of the scenery and foliage enough cannot be said. To the foreigner it appears at first glaring, so brilliant and varied is the coloring, and luxuriant the growth, but once accustomed to it, other places present a barren appearance. The Americans in the city number about 8000."

MET MRS. TOWNSEND.
Mrs. Moore had the pleasure of being one of the first to greet Mrs. George W. Townsend of Buffalo, past president of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union, who is making her home in Honolulu with her niece, Mrs. Townsend intrusted Mrs. Moore with many kindly messages to her Buffalo friends on her departure for this city. The beautiful climate of the islands encourages out-of-door entertainment rather than the ordinary city affairs, and the people of the city enjoy aquatic sports, baseball games, excursions to the adjoining islands and the famous volcano, with perhaps a ball at the principal hotel in the evening, or on the arrival of a steamer from home. The city boasts of art leagues, musical organizations and literary clubs, but there is nothing of the "club" interest which one finds in the American cities. Nobody rushes downtown to the club after a hastily-finished luncheon, and few women realize that they have nerves. "Restful" is the word which describes the life of the American women in Honolulu.

Mrs. Moore is engaged in church work, being a member of the Women's Board of Missions and one of the workers in the Union church, which has a large membership composed of various sects, which worship together. DOMESTICS AND SEAMSTRESSES.

The servant question is settled in Honolulu by the Japanese and Chinese, who really make very good servants, after becoming familiar with the wants of the mistress. Japanese women act as nursery maids and the principal dressmakers are Portuguese women, who have absolutely no ideas of their own, but who work well under careful surveillance.

"One hears such absurd things of the dress of the native Hawaiian," said Mrs. Moore. "Instead of being scantily clothed they wear a long 'holoku,' a gown made something after the style of the Mother Hubbard, but elaborately trimmed and garnished according to the means of the wearer."

"So comfortable are these loose robes that the American women have adopted them" and Mrs. Moore brought a very pretty one in a pale blue Japanese crepe, made by a Jap woman. "The Chinese and Japanese women do not dress a bit like those we see on the stage," said Mrs. Moore. "They have none of those butterfly bows, and never a fan in their hair, but they add to the picturesqueness of the street scenes, as do also the little Chinese children, who wear the most beautiful robes of richest materials."

Mrs. Moore speaks highly of the opportunities for education in the islands, and although many of the white people send their children abroad, there is every chance for a good education at home. Mrs. Moore will be joined by her husband and together they will journey back to Honolulu in the late autumn.

There was some playing at Kaplan Park yesterday afternoon that was a sad travesty on baseball.

In the first game the Stars made a game effort in the last three innings to catch the H. I. W.'s, and it looked as though they would do it, but they fell shy two runs.

The Diamond Heads in the second game started off with four runs in the first innings and walked over the Stars. Not content with winning the game in the first five innings, in the ninth they got eleven runs on four base hits, three bases on balls, a passed ball and a balk.

The scores and teams are as follows:

JAPS ARE DEPORTED FROM CALIFORNIA

Seventeen Japanese, of whom three were women, were deported from this port yesterday afternoon on the steamship Korea, bound for Japan and the Orient. These Japanese are of the lowest class of coolies, of whom such an enormous number have been found in Mexico, and who it is believed have been brought over here through the agency of contractors located at the ports along the coast of Mexico. Those who were deported yesterday were located about one month ago in Arizona by Inspector George W. Webb, of the Bureau of Immigration in Tucson, A. T., and four United States marshals. At the time of their capture they were found near El Paso, Tex., and had no examination papers.

According to Inspector Webb, this band of coolies were first apprehended in Salinas Cruz, Mexico, where they were at work on the breakwater. It is believed that they scented trouble and subsequently made their way up the coast, across the border and into Arizona, where the immigration officers got on their track and trailed them to El Paso, where they were arrested. They were found to be only common laborers, absolutely without means and living in the most miserable

CAR STRIKES BUGGY AND INJURES DRIVER

F. L. Strauss had a narrow escape from being maimed, if not killed, early last evening through being run into by a King street car. Strauss was driving a light buggy and turned from South street into King street, coming into town. A car in charge of Motor-man Coulter bound for Waikiki struck the rig and knocked it over toward the curb, throwing Strauss out. He was taken to Mr. Simonton's house near by, where he remained until Mr. Nicholson of the Rapid Transit and Dr. Moore arrived. Dr. Moore carried Strauss to the Queen's Hospital in his automobile. The full extent of his injuries could not be determined last night.
